

For extra I added in the highscores table to the game page. So that the player can see the opponent's scores while he plays. The player's score is also in the table (which is retrieved using ajax) while the rest of the scores use plain php.